

Amar Awni

Mobile App Developer

Profile

I work as a software developer and I have a passion for teaching programming and delivering information in the simplest and best way possible.

I studied computer engineering at 19 May University in Samsun, Turkey.

I helped hundreds of students to learn how to code and change their lives by becoming mobile app developers.

My first experience in programming in action was in 2008 when I wanted to create my own application and make profits by selling it in the labor market.

Since then, I've made hundreds of apps.
